Market Commentary

Yellow sapphires continue to hold strong demand, particularly in South Asian and international luxury markets where they are associated with prosperity and prestige. The heated treatment is standard in the market and does not significantly reduce value, provided the clarity remains high. This cushion-cut stone with loupe-clean clarity enhances its appeal, though the 'good' cut quality places it slightly below top-tier pricing brackets. The lack of a recognized international origin report may limit premium valuations, but the Sri Lanka certification ensures trust in authenticity. Overall, this gem fits well within the mid-to-high international demand spectrum.
